

Decent eels are no pushover

As it looks unlikely that another trip to France is going to come off this year, for a variety of reasons, I am hoping to give the coarse fish species of the south east a really good thrashing this autumn – oops! I shouldn't have said that!

A very nice common

Finally a word about the death of 'Two Tone' the biggest carp in Britain (allegedly) – if you have not heard enough already! While I can't quite bring myself to mourn the passing of a fish, I do celebrate the fact that it was a proper native beast of these shores, with a good pedigree and not the product of an illegal importing operation that has been responsible for wiping out many of our native fish with or without names.

Who knows which language the next 'British' record carp will speak??
